ROCK AND WRONG PART 2

I am a vivid reader of your magazine and I enjoy it a lot, but, I would like to point out a huge error in your part. In #339's "Still More Badly Needed Warning Labels for Rock Albums," Jimi Hendrix is portrayed as an angel holding a guitar the right-handed way! Jimi is left-handed! If it was not for this mistake your magazine would be perfect. Perfectly horrible that is! Keep up the good work!

Dave Stevens
McKinney, TX

Dave — Thanks for the left-handed compliment! —Ed.

Shut up! In "Still More Badly Needed Warning Labels for Rock Albums," you dared to say that Nirvana Unplugged in New York was a CD just as overpriced as every other album "despite using no expensive equipment, getting free studio time and advertising, and having absolutely no new songs." First of all, the only reason I know this mindlessly unresearched article exists is because I was curious to see why a friend of mine gasped while reading your magazine. Also, if you would have bothered to use whatever brains you have and thought before you acted, you would have discovered that this album was released after the death of Kurt Cobain. So it's most likely that it won't contain any new songs. Try asking any Nirvana fan if they regret paying the price they did for Unplugged and see what they tell you. Plus, Nirvana was not nearly as rich as you portray them, or they would have bought more expensive equipment. You don't have the guts to print this.

Erick Adam
Romeo, MI

Thanks for your long, tedious and pointless letter! Many people have speculated that it was laborious, mind-numbing fan letters such as this that caused Kurt to smoke the ol' Smith & Wesson in the first place! Then again, if we found ourselves married to "delicious" Courtney Love, we'd probably take drugs and blow our brains out, too! —Ed.

LETTERS &

CELEBRITY SNAPS

There he was, Mr. T, standing alone at the jukebox at the Frankfurt Intercontinental Hotel! The opportunity to have some fun during the Frankfurt Book Fair was obviously a problem for him. That's when (from left to right) Dawn Evans, Phyllis Hume and I showed up and his ornery frown was turned upside down! He insisted, however, that he be able to touch my braid and, in turn, we would be allowed to feel his mohawk!

Francine Burke
New York, NY

We put your photo before our Letters Page Board of Trustees to determine if in fact Mr. T still qualifies as a celebrity! It was a very, very tough call, but luckily, the board decided in your favor! An interesting point of fact: The board deliberated on this matter longer than the O.J. Simpson jury did on their verdict. Go know! —Ed.

"FIENDS"

I really enjoyed your spoof of the TV show Friends in MAD #339. It helped me realize what a crappy show it really is. Thanks for saving my life!

YOU KNOW AMERICA'S BEEN NUKED WHEN: On CNN, Larry King keeps asking, "Is the caller there? Is the caller there? IS THE CALLER THERE? IS THE CALLER THERE?"

It's a well-known television industry fact that networks will stoop to unfathomable depths of sleaziness and swill to attract viewers during Sweeps Weeks. That's the critical time of year when Nielsen ratings are taken to determine ad rates for the upcoming season. Being commercial free, the Public Broadcasting System has never had to play this sordid game of "Anything You Can Do We Can Do With More Explosions And Women With Bigger Breasts." But with his Newtness at the helm of Congress, it won't be long before public funding for public television is cut and PBS is as desperate and willing to debase itself as any other network. As a child sauntering in Poo-Poo Bay, a remote part of Gnocheuz Island, I fondly recall opening my eyes to my dear Uncle Witherspoon staggering in, stinking of gin, and taking us to view the wonder and whimsy of the local murder trials!

Nothing warms my heart more than the memories of those cold-blooded killers — magical and merry afternoons filled with the joyful chorus of "Hang the bastard!" Which is why it brought me so much despair to see just how tedious the O.J. Simpson murder trial was!

So we on the staff of Martha Stewart Living? decided to put our little highlighted heads together and show how wonderful it would have been had we run the trial! We're honored to present...

Martha Stewart Remakes the "Perfect" O.J. Trial

Our first hint begins with the basics! The setting: a dull, drab courtroom with absolutely nothing to please the eye!

What we've done here is created a chalk body outline stencil! Using a whitewash, we can decorate the walls and floors to give the feeling of a real crime scene!

Next, we've seen enough of these high-profile cases to know the jury could just as easily be replaced with 12 potted plants, so that's what we'll do...

...replace the jurors with these absolutely gorgeous ferns! They're going to thrive in all the hot air!

Instead of passing around pieces of evidence in tacky and lackluster baggies, we display the pieces on silver trays, using a pillow of mesculin greens like they do at Le Cirque!

And taking another cue from the world of fine dining, we mold a primary exhibit, the bloody glove, into the shape of a whimsical swan!

Focusing next on Judge Ito's Japanese roots, we suggest Sumo wrestlers in the place of bailiffs! They can carry their guns between their generous folds! I love this idea, and I think you will too!

Another idea! Because this is L.A., instead of swearing in the witnesses, we'll have our Sumo wrestlers click a real Hollywood clapboard! Take 3, Kato!

Personally, I'd like to see O.J. brought in on a handtruck with a straitjacket and a catcher's mask, à la Hannibal Lecter, wouldn't you? It's a wonderful, playful touch!

Finally, we think it's gauche and unrefined to have day after day of endless proceedings with nary a morsel!

So, in keeping with the theme of the trial, we've prepared blood sausage and tongue finger sandwiches, Bloody Marys with plastic knife swizzle sticks in them, and a platter of rare organ meat for a tempting buffet!

That's all for today's show! Please tune in next time when our focus will be the illegal immigrant problem! A few of our homemade potpourri packets tucked away in the corner of your car's trunk will make a big difference when being smuggled across the border!

'Till next time: Au revoir!

Martha Stewart can be seen weekdays twice a day, and three times on weekends! Her Martha Stewart Living magazine can be subscribed to by calling 1-800 LADYDYEJOB

THE HIGH COSTNER OF DOING BUSINESS DEPT.

The most repugnant hot gas that spewed from the foul bowels of Hollywood this year was an utterly worthless bit of celluloid called Waterworld. Not only was this sad excuse for a movie a monumental critical turkey, but it went $100 million over budget, becoming the most expensive production in the history of cinema! Leave it to us, the muckraking muckrakers of the muckraking fourth estate, to dig up and shovel back to the hard crust of the earth the shocking document which tells the shocking story of how and why this shockingly bad film was shockingly doomed from the start! Read for yourself...

Re: Waterworld Production Budget Overruns

Date: May 22, 1995

As CEO of Universal's parent company, you are probably wondering why it cost $200 million to film Waterworld, making it the most expensive movie ever made.

As star, co-producer and supreme guiding spirit and soul of the film, I want to explain and justify some of the reasons for the unusual cost overruns, none of which could have been anticipated.

To get more of a feel for my role as the Mariner, who can live on both land and water, I went on a diet of fresh seaweed and algae. Unfortunately, I quickly came down with "kelp rash," which laid me up for five days with an unsightly blotch on my right bicep. Such a blemish might not bother a lesser actor like Brad Pitt, but my public demands physical perfection. The cost of digitally removing the blotch was $8.4 million. Obviously, this "electronic Clearasil" was well worth it!

Being submerged in the ocean six hours a day left me waterlogged, requiring I spend two hours each evening being "squeezed." I was then towed off and tumbled by my hand-picked crew of 17 Hawaiian "Costnerettes." Their fees, equipment and "personal services" added $1.2 million to the budget.

In Waterworld, the Mariner recycles his urine into drinking water. This scene required more than 25 takes! I insisted that only my urine be recycled so as to not disappoint my demanding fans, who would surely be able to tell if it were provided by a "stunt bladder." This necessitated air-expressing 20 casks per week of specially brewed "Costner Beer" from a Bavarian brewmeister. The $750,000 spent for this was not, as some claim, "pissed away," but money well spent, which (as I'm sure you'll agree!) greatly enhanced my performance.

Shooting on location in Hawaii proved to be a gastro-intestinal disaster. Several underwater scenes had to be reshot because of air bubbles rising to the surface from my stunt double, who could not contain his stomach gas brought on by our nightly roasted pig luaus. This "double bubble trouble," as Variety termed it, might have been acceptable to Keanu Reeves or Tom Cruise, but not Kevin Costner! The extra $11.6 million to reshoot was worth every cent. As for the stunt double, he'll never work in movies again!

While reviewing dailies, I noticed that my hairline appeared to recede a full 1/16 of an inch underwater. Rather than disappoint my adoring public, who have come to expect a perfect Costner hairline, I acted quickly to camouflage it by hiring Industrial Light And Magic to superimpose animated guppies on the finished film. Regrettably, the work of the 30-member animation team, costing $6.5 million, obscured my best close-ups and the entire scene ended up on the cutting room floor.

Waterworld villain Dennis Hopper threatened to walk off the film unless he was provided with a glass eye which matched the color of his other eye, even though it was to be covered by an eye-patch throughout the movie. We were forced to fly in three ophthalmologists from New York and build them an offshore eye lab. In the end, Hopper rejected their work, wasting $10.7 million of the company's money. If there's one thing I can't stand, it's a self-indulgent actor with an over-inflated ego!

We discovered that one of the 700 members of Hopper's pirate crew was an albino, whose white skin clashed with the sunburnt bodies of the other extras. We were forced to reshoot seven lengthy scenes, costing $11.5 million. The blame fell squarely on the shoulders of the ineffective director, Kevin Reynolds, whom I personally fired and replaced with the best director in Hollywood — yours truly! Negotiations were difficult, but I managed to hire myself for a mere $12 million — only $10 million more than we were paying that no-talent Reynolds!

Because of some piddly union rule, many of our 30 divers refused to go into the water until a full hour after eating. This unprofessional behavior, based on a 19th-Century belief, held us up several thousand man-hours, adding $12.7 million to the budget. I convinced a few of the divers to take the plunge, quickly resulting in their coming down with severe cramps and vomiting all over the set. Medical bills and cleanup costs totaled an additional $1.1 million. (This figure does not take into account the still-pending $30 million in "wrongful death" lawsuits brought by the families of the divers.) Needless to say, none of the divers will ever dive in films again!

My webbed feet in the film disabled me for nearly a week with a rare form of athlete's foot. Luckily, we were able to fly in a team of New Zealand veterinarians, specializing in webbed-feet fungal diseases, who treated me successfully on my rented 90-foot private yacht. This setback cost $9.2 million. The so-called prosthetics experts who created my webbed feet were fired! They will never create webbed feet in Hollywood again!

I realize that we may never recoup the entire $200 million and change we spent filming Waterworld. But looking at the bright side, the unforeseen expenses listed here were a valuable learning experience. This should bring down costs considerably when we shoot Waterworld II and Waterworld III!

Kevin

Depending on whose estimates you go by, there were somewhere between 600,000 to 1.2 million men at the recent Million Man March in Washington, D.C. But getting caught up in exactly how many were there misses the bigger question of just who was there! MAD gives you the low-down in a nutshell in...

DISNEY HAS PROMISED NOT TO INTERFERE WITH ABC-NEWS REPORTS, HOWEVER WE WOULDN'T BE SURPRISED TO SEE CERTAIN KEY WORDS SPRINKLED INTO THE NEWS STORIES...

Bill Gates, the PRINCE CHARMING of computer software said some MICKEY MOUSE stockbrokers were responsible for setting off the MINNIE frenzy!

Disney's ABC NEWS NEW YORK

ABC WON'T HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT AGING STARS ON SUCCESSFUL TV SHOWS THANKS TO DISNEY IMAGINEERS...

Good evening, I'm Barbara Walters!

And I'm Hugh Downs!

We just have to reverse the audio cables on these animatronic versions of Barbara Walters and Hugh Downs and they'll be perfect!

This is the most animated those two old coots have ever been! And now they can be ABC stars forever!

Disney's 20/20

TED KOPPEL OF NIGHTLINE COULD FIND HIMSELF WITH A NEW CO-ANCHOR...

Senator Packwood, it seems like every month another woman comes forward to accuse you of making uninvited sexual advances toward her.

First of all, it's not that often! Secondly, I never made any unwanted advances towards anyone! Lastly I...

Senator Packwood, you'll have to slow down! It's a bit unusual, but Pinocchio's nose seems to be growing larger and larger for every lie...I mean denial...you state! Our viewers at home can't see the end of it, as it's grown right off the screen! Why don't we alert our affiliates that we're taking a station break while we try and get Pinocchio's nose back to normal size!

CHARACTER BREAKFASTS AT DISNEY THEME PARKS COULD BECOME A BIT STRAINED AS DISNEY TRIES TO USE THE GATHERINGS TO PROMOTE THEIR TV SHOWS...

What's 'matter with you little brats?!? Don't ya want a hug from da Commish?!?

SUBTLE PLUGS WILL BE WORKED INTO HIT ABC SHOWS LIKE NYPD BLUE...

You've had it, sleazebag! You're going to prison for the next 20 years!

Big deal, I'll be out in seven years!

Yeah, and then what are you gonna do?

I'm going to Disney World!

LIKELIKE, DISNEY CHARACTERS WILL BE ABLE TO CONVENIENTLY DROP IN ON HIT ABC SITCOMS...

I'VE GOT YOU OFF OF MY SKIN DEPT.

The practice of embedding one's flesh with permanent dyes has been with us for centuries. Indeed, Queen Nefertitti is said to have had the message "Hecky 4-Ever" placed on her left shin just before the great Egyptian husk famine in the 17th century B.C. In subsequent years, many more practical uses for these permanent skin stains have been discovered...

LAW ENFORCEMENT

Since the Supreme Court's landmark Miranda decision, police officers everywhere found themselves fumbling with little laminated cards at the worst times when advising alleged perpetrators of their rights. Tattoos to the rescue! Located between the wrist and elbow, cops no longer faced the dilemma of having to either release or shoot their detainees on the spot simply because they forgot to recite a few words like "right," "remain" or "silent." There is ample room on their other arm for donut shop hours and overtime pay tables.

SUMMER FUN

A common predicament facing nudists is: not enough nude beaches. Tattoos to the rescue! An easy-to-apply bikini or speedo pattern turns any public beach, swimming pool or open hydrant into a clothing-optional one, insuring the freedom to sun worship unencumbered without facing disapproving stares from conservative bathers, intervention by strong-arm lifeguards and arrest by cops with the Miranda rights tattooed on their arms.

HUNTING

Likewise, hunters found that heavy, non-breathable surplus camouflage gear rendered the summertime stalking of game impossible. Tattoos to the rescue! The greens, grays and browns of wild foliage randomly and permanently etched into the epidermis now allow sportsmen to be almost as bare as the defenseless prey they relentlessly pursue — and no longer break a sweat.

And yet, with all these ingenious and practical applications for tattoos, the vast, vast majority of people still use them to display messages like "Hecky 4-Ever"! The problem? When Hecky leaves your life, the tattoo remains. Sure, there are removal techniques such as laser treatment, but they're expensive and time consuming. If you're in a hurry or on a budget, we recommend choosing an easy "do-it-yourself" method from...

MILITIA GROUPS HAVE BEEN IN THE PRESS AN AWFUL LOT LATELY. SOME OF THE ARTICLES WOULD LEAD YOU TO BELIEVE THAT A FEW MILITIA MEMBERS ARE DROOLING GOONS. WELL, WE'RE HERE TO INFORM YOU THAT IT ISN'T JUST A FEW, THEY'RE ALL DROOLING GOONS! HERE'S...

A MAD PEEK BEHIND THE SCENES AT A MILITIA GATHERING

I checked our coffers, and it looks like we're only $239 short of our goal to buy the Russian-made 387KX Exterminator Mobile Rocket Launcher! With that weapon we could take out an entire unit of ATF agents before they even knew what hit them!

Yeah, We gotta be able to get this great product!

Troops, this calls for some really drastic action! Mildred, I want you to pull together another bake sale!

Besides the militia, I'm a member of other organizations that champion the rights of people like us!

You mean the N.R.A.?

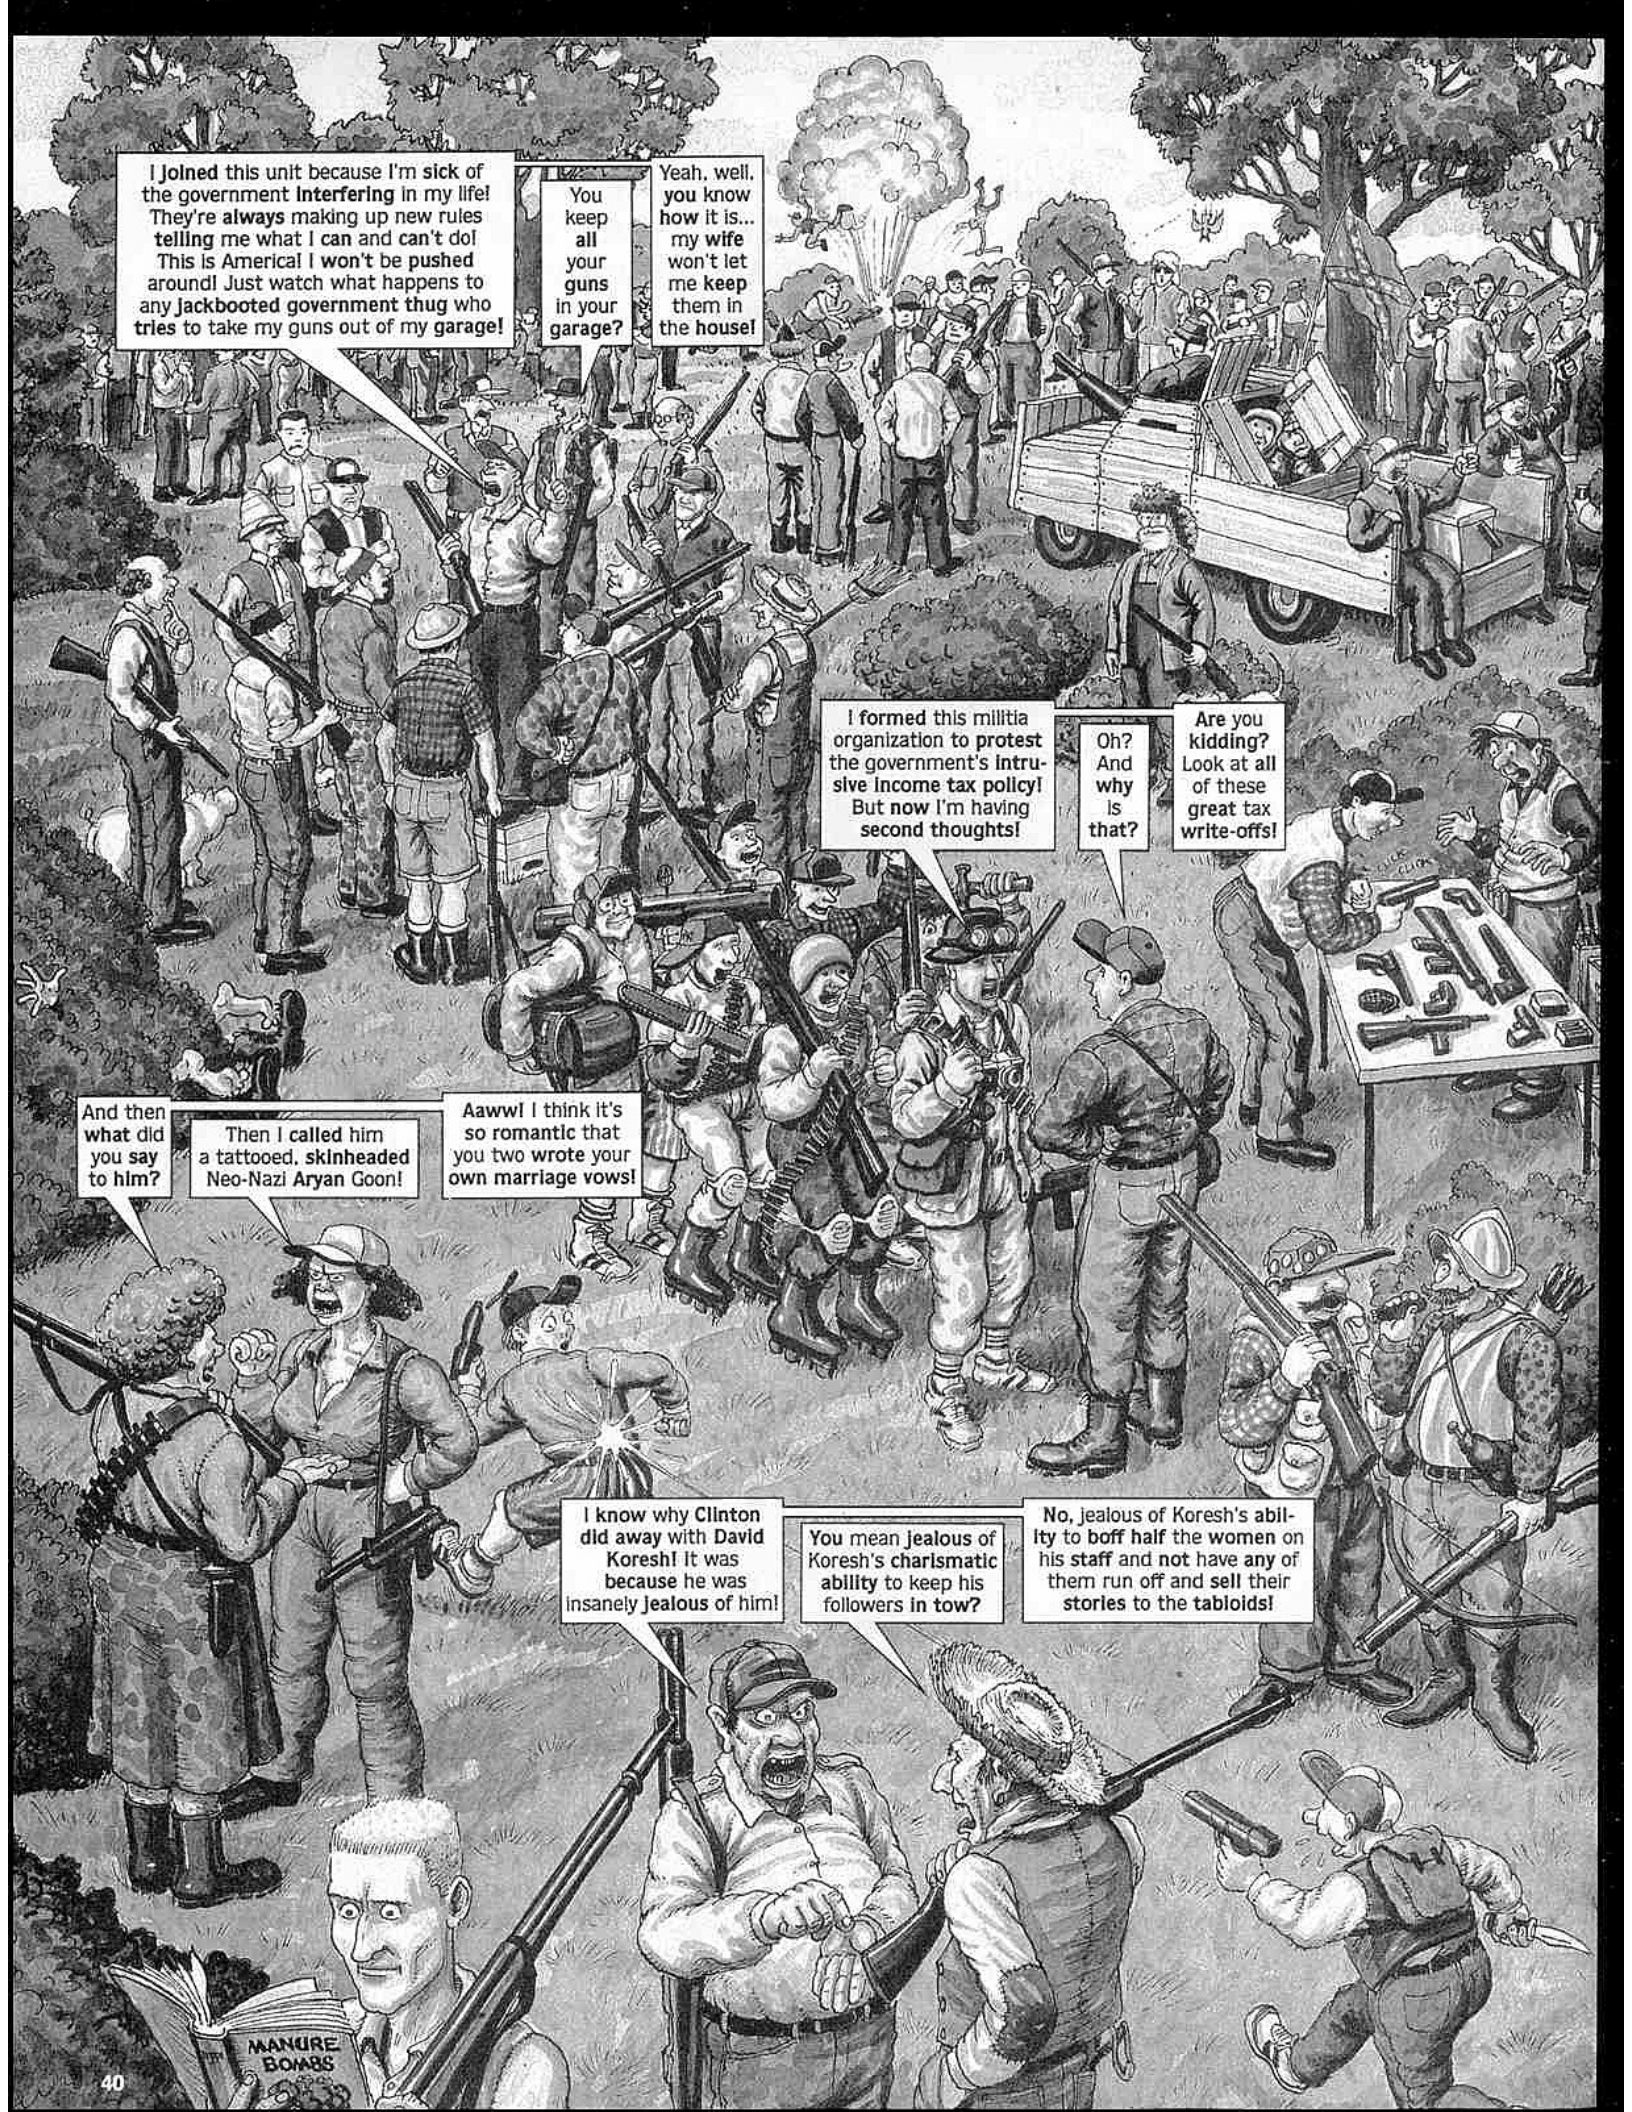

Nope. Weight Watchers, the A.A.R.P. and Alcoholics Anonymous!

The other day my mother told me I was paranoid for joining a militia outfit. Can you believe that? My own mother!

So, what do you plan on doing about it?

As soon as I locate the listening device she planted in my room, I'm going to confront her with it!

ARTIST: JAMES WARHOLA
WRITER: JOHN CALDWELL

I joined this unit because I'm sick of the government interfering in my life! They're always making up new rules telling me what I can and can't do! This is America! I won't be pushed around! Just watch what happens to any jackbooted government thug who tries to take my guns out of my garage!

You keep all your guns in your garage?

Yeah, well, you know how it is... my wife won't let me keep them in the house!

I formed this militia organization to protest the government's intrusive income tax policy! But now I'm having second thoughts!

Oh? And why is that?

Are you kidding? Look at all of these great tax write-offs!

And then what did you say to him?

Then I called him a tattooed, skinheaded Neo-Nazi Aryan Goon!

Aaww! I think it's so romantic that you two wrote your own marriage vows!

I know why Clinton did away with David Koresh! It was because he was insanely jealous of him!

You mean jealous of Koresh's charismatic ability to keep his followers in tow?

No, jealous of Koresh's ability to boff half the women on his staff and not have any of them run off and sell their stories to the tabloids!

I had another encounter with a jackbooted government thug just this very morning!

Really? What happened?

The fascist stooge was three days late with my Social Security check! I really gave that post-man a piece of my mind!

Aim for the head! I heard G. Gordon Liddy say it's best to aim for government agents' heads!

G. Gordon Liddy giving shooting instructions? I thought his field of expertise was burglary!

It was, but these days you have to diversify!

C'mon, dad, let's play some throw!

Doesn't he mean play some catch?

With live grenades you do not play catch!

They can try to take it if they dare! But they'll have to pry it from my cold dead fingers!

What, your gun?

No, my beer! It's the last one in the cooler!

Whew! Wow, that guy there sure is ripe!

That's because he's one of those tree-hugging environmentalists! He only uses natural fertilizer in his explosive devices!

AU PAIR OF QUEENS DEPT.

Just thought I'd inform you, sir! The old nanny's gone! We need someone to look after your bratty children!

We've tried, Dulls! I'm afraid we're never going to find anyone!

Wait, sir! Look! Up in the sky! Wearing a designer umbrella, a Scassi outfit, Bruno Magli shoes and a Bloomingdale's bag!

Is it the answer to our problems?

I'm afraid it's just the beginning of our problems, Sir! It's...

The Ninny

ARTIST: ANGELO TORRES
WRITER: JOSH GORDON

Antttttttttttt!
Oyyyyyyyyyy!
Wnnnnnnnnnnnn!

Excuse me, sir, but I believe a car alarm has gone off!

Hmm? Oh, that's not a car alarm, Dulls! That's Fawn Flemm, The Ninny!

My goodness! It sounds like a wounded hawk meeting the screech of a cattle car!

Oh, if only it were really that mellifluous!

Kids, have we got a day planned? We'll go! We'll do! We'll schlep! Marquee, don't slouch! Bratton, don't potchkee! Crassy, eat your lox and bagels!

Miss Flemm, just what are lox and bagels?

They're a kind of "fish and chips" with heartburn! And Bratton, you haven't even touched your kugel pudding!

My what?

Don't ask! Just remember the rule: If you can't pronounce it, it's delicious!

Dulls, I wonder if we made a mistake hiring Miss Flemm!

My three Presbyterian kids have all developed a nasal whine and are shopping at Loehmann's!

Really? You don't think she's had an unusual influence on this household?

Don't be meshugah, sir! Now pardon me while I schlep this tray of nosh!

What makes you say that, sir?

It's a phasel

Isn't this cool? We're the only kids in town getting a bilingual education!

There are other kids getting a bilingual education!

In Yiddish and British?

Miss Flemm, tomorrow night I have an important backer's audition! Could you keep the children occupied?

I can't work tomorrow! It's an important holiday for my people!

I wasn't aware! What holiday is it?

Are you kidding? It's Barbra Streisand's birthday!

Oops! There's an emergency! It's my Aunt Freda!

Aunt Freda's retaining water!

When there's a party honoring you as the Pisha Pasha champion of Great Neck and you're trying to fit size 9 feet into size 7 satin pumps!

What happened?

Since when is retaining water an emergency?

Dulls, this is America in the '90s! Who's going to believe that kids today still have an English butler?

The same people who believe a $300-a-week nanny can afford to traipse around in $2,000 designer gowns!

What do you think, Marquee? My red sequin gown or the drop dead Bob Mackle black silk thing with the spaghetti straps?

Well, that all depends! What's the occasion?

I'm shopping for fruit at the super-market!

Fawn, how come you dress up so flashy? Other nannys don't do that!

Honey, when you have what I have, you can get away with it!

You mean your figure?

Nah! Get real, kid! I produce this show and control the scripts!

Ma, doesn't he look like my Morty?

Are you meshuguh? He looks like your husband Morty like I look like Sharon Stone!

Sure he looks like my Morty... only slimmer, wealthier, and there's no hair growing in his ears!

So who can see? My contacts fell in the beef barley soup!

My God! They make the parents on Seinfeld look like royalty!

Tonight I'm going to audition a new play for the upcoming season!

Father, how come you're always holding auditions here in the townhouse?

There are certain very specific budget considerations!

What kind of budget considerations? You've got millions!

No, not me! This stupid TV show! With all of Miss Flemm's costume changes there's no budget left for us to build any new sets!

Miss Flemm! This was supposed to be Oklahoma! When did it become a production of Fiddler On The Roof?

I recast it! Theatre parties aren't going to shell out 65 bucks to see "corn as high as an elephant's eye" or "surreys with fringes on top"! But a mensch with a beard talking to God...

Are you sure the casting is right?

Well, it's a long shot, but I think it's going to work! They're going to love Nick Nolte as Tevya!

Nick Nolte as Tevya? That's an awful choice! He's so WASP-ish!

Was! After Barbra Streisand got through with him in Prince of Tides, he's a candidate for the School of Talmudic Studies!

Miss Flemm, what are you doing in my bed?

Well, I drank a little schnapps, got a little tipsy, and staggered into the wrong room!

I demand an explanation! In recent weeks you've hidden in my closet, wangled your way into my production of Romeo & Juliet, and now you're in my bed! Exactly what do you have in mind?

Isn't it obvious? I'm doing an ethnic '90s version of I Love Lucy!

THE YUK STOPS HERE DEPT.

Back in issue #329, MAD shocked the comedy world by introducing No-Joke Jokes, guaranteed laugh-getters that weren't really jokes at all. ("I come from a town so small, the hooker wore a helmet!") Joke-tellers around the world celebrated, but we still weren't satisfied! No, we pressed on, strove forward, stretching, stretching, stretching to break new comedic ground, to create a revolutionary new form of joke that doesn't require a punchline to generate big laughs! Unfortunately, we failed miserably, as you'll see for yourself after checking out these...
